

but Barry Hawkins stated that the Club was still healthy financially. Plans for the Treffen are progressing well. Please note that pre-inscription forms must be received by the end of June and those requiring electricity for medical purposes from 8pm – 8am shall pay for the electricity on a daily basis. Members can arrive on the site from Monday at a cost of £5.00 per unit per night and the facilities, catering and bar will be running from then. It all looks good to go. There was the election of Officers and a majority of the votes came in on-line. Wayne stated that of those who requested and received postal votes only half then returned the voting papers!!

Would you believe that the WingSpan had been an on-line edition for four years now – where ever has the time gone to.

Trust everyone is getting the camping gear ready as the season is upon us and Wing Dings and Treffens here and abroad are imminent and the bikes are pristine and serviced. Looking forward to all the travelling.

No more for now:- Ride safely – it's a busy world out there. Sent from the far fling reaches of East Anglia by an aging Rebel rider.

At the time of writing this month's report, at least a dozen Mole Goldwings were heading to the Belgian Treffen for some fun and frolics and also to celebrate, a little belatedly, Julie's 60th birthday. Johnny and I are not driving anywhere at the moment so I have been promised a report back on all the activities for the July Wingspan. Watch this space, as they say, for more, or maybe nothing!

Tara also had a significant birthday in April and partied hard with friends who couldn't believe her fantastic fifty years. Here's four well-framed beauties and two others modelling the latest headgear.

Gerald, affectionately known as Rusty Nut, is our oldest Mole and celebrated his 90th birthday with family in May. We all send our love and congratulations to him and hope he didn't set off the fire alarm whilst blowing out all those candles.

Numbers attending our Mole Nights fluctuate but we're always delighted to welcome visitors from far and wide. Half of White Horse Region attended in April - hello Sue and Jeff, and Jason travelled from Aldershot in May. We continue with our raffles and Paul was the lucky recipient recently of a solar jar light in the Open-the-Box category. A very handy addition to his garden furniture I think.

Meanwhile, Dani was busy doing some homework research on her phone.

Taz and Trudy pop in when they are not sailing the high seas and he displayed for all to see outside the new lighting system on his trike. Looks like he is trying to win the Best Dressed Trike award sometime during the year.

It was good to see Jo up and about after her accident. Lots of jokes about sleep walking but we're grateful that she was able to bounce down the stairs in the way she did.

It's an unusually short report this time so, finally, we send our best wishes to get well soon to Ted, Gordon and Alison, and Tim Brooks after his horrific accident. May the second half of 2019 be kinder to everyone.

Enjoy the miles and hopefully, the sunshine.
